

Health worker hits out over dumped needles

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

SIX used syringes, some with drugs still inside, were found dumped in a Haverhill street – leading one health worker to hit back at police for refusing to help her.

Samantha Notley, a health care assistant at West Suffolk Hospital, noticed the needles between Woodcock Close and Rosefinch Close on her way to pick up her car from a friend's house on Sunday morning.

Despite calling the police immediately to report the discarded syringes and being assured they would be collected, Mrs Notley found them still there more than two hours later.

She said: "First of all I rang and told them they were there. They said they'd deal with it. I got back two-and-a-half to three hours later and they were still on the road. "I said to my husband 'we can't leave them, I found drugs still there in the syringes.'"

Mrs Notley says she was worried about the danger the needles presented to passing children.

"There are kids always walking up and down those roads. As I was cleaning up, walking by were a kid and a mum – she was only wearing flip flops."

"I found a bit of paper, 'how to use a one mil hit kit.'"

After collecting the needles in a plastic bottle, Mrs Notley and her husband Brian went back down to Haverhill police station and used the yellow telephone outside to contact Suffolk police again.

She said: "I told them what I had found and was told there was no-one around that could help me and I was told to discard them. I asked how I could do that, she went off to speak to someone, came back and told me to put them in the bin."

Mrs Notley refused and felt that was too dangerous with what appeared to be drugs still in two of the syringes. When she told the operator she worked in a hospital she says she was told to simply take the syringes to work with her to dispose of them.

Mrs Notley was concerned about taking the syringes to work and refused, worried about the possibility of being pulled over and having drugs in her car.

A Suffolk Constabulary spokesman said: "We can confirm we received a call from a member of the public at 10.10am on Sunday reporting she had found about half a dozen syringes in the Woodcock Close area of Haverhill.

"Staff at the local council were contacted to arrange their collection. We would always ask members of the public to report found syringes to their local council to arrange specialist collection."

Mrs Notley has hit out at a lack of clarity about who to go to and what to do in these situations.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council is responsible for needle disposal but Mrs Notley did not feel this was clear enough, nor did she believe the presence of a sharps bin was well known.

She said: "There's a service apparently to get rid of needles and a sharps bin at Jubilee Walk. I thought police would have known about it."

A spokesman for the borough council said they had sent out an officer, but when they arrived the needles were no longer there.

Mrs Notley and her husband were eventually able to dispose of the needles safely with the help of Boots and Haverhill pharmacy.

CAMPAIGN

BIN IT: Suffolk police want to take knives off the streets

Knife amnesty across county

SUFFOLK police are cracking down on knife crime with a week of action including a knife amnesty across the county.

Operation Sceptre is part of a national week of activity to highlight the risks that carrying a blade can bring as well as targeting people who use and carry knives.

Superintendent Kerry Cutler, lead for Operation Sceptre at Suffolk police, said: "There is no excuse to carry a knife in Suffolk. Knife crime can have devastating consequences and if you are found illegally in possession of a knife you will be arrested, put before the court and brought to justice."

@rach_mc94CN

"Knives do not keep you safe - quite the opposite. By carrying a knife you are putting yourself in much greater danger, being more likely to become involved in a violent situation and get injured yourself."

"This week of activity is part of our ongoing commitment to disrupt criminal gangs and take as many knives and weapons off our streets as possible."

"There are a number of knife amnesty bins in place across the county and I would encourage people to use them and help us to keep Suffolk safe."

Trading standards are working with police to help educate shop owners about the importance of challenging underage customers and making sure all their knife and blade sales are within the law.

Since the Bin a Blade campaign was launched in 2011, well over 17,000 bladed items have been deposited.

As part of the campaign which runs until May 6, police are asking anyone with information on knife crime in their community to contact Suffolk police on 101, or pass information to Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111. In an emergency, always dial 999.

FUNDRAISING

SUCCESS: Vanessa and Stephen Boulton who completed the Isle of Wight challenge

Couple walk 65 miles for dad

A HAVERHILL couple have completed a mammoth walking challenge, completing 65 miles (106 km) in just 32 hours.

Vanessa and Stephen Boulton took on the Isle of Wight challenge to raise money for Cancer Research in memory of her dad Colin who died from cancer in August, after an eight-year battle.

The mammoth challenge saw the couple walk continuously around the island, with no sleep and very few rests along the way, to raise nearly £1,500 so far.

Sitting on the sofa in September last year Stephen turned to Vanessa and asked her if she wanted to do something to remember her dad and so began their journey to the Isle of Wight challenge.

Vanessa, who owns All-4Paws in Haverhill, said they supported Cancer Research because "not many people now know somebody who hasn't battled cancer in some way, shape or form."

RACHAEL MCMENEMY

The couple started walking at 8.40am on Saturday and completed the walk at 5.12pm on Sunday.

Vanessa said: "It was more hard work mentally than physically. My fit bit went mad! I think over the time we burned just over 10,000 calories."

The physical toll on both their bodies was immense. With 54km to go, Vanessa pulled both her hamstrings and husband Stephen had blisters so bad he got an infection afterwards.

The couple relied heavily on each other to overcome the numerous mental stumbling blocks they encountered during the walk.

Vanessa said: "We are both in a little bit of disbelief that we completed it and are so proud of each other and ourselves of doing it. My husband says we dragged each other around.

"But when I had my low points he was still feeling OK. He talked me round and when he had his low parts I told him 'you can do it, you'll be fine. We picked each other up, we worked together as a team."

The couple wanted to thank everyone who supported them and are keen to do the challenge again next year.

Vanessa said: "We want to thank everyone that has supported us throughout the time of training. A lot of Haverhill people supported us and we would like to thank them for their support."

COMMUNITY

Call for help with new exhibition

HAVERHILL Family History Group is appealing for help with a new exhibition celebrating lives in the town.

The group is working with St Mary's on displays for the church open days in June and wants to celebrate the different events held there over the years.

The new exhibition will be a celebration of lives, starting with baptisms, leading to weddings and burials with displays focusing on flowers, wedding and Christening gowns, photos, newspaper reports, original registers and other memorabilia.

The open days will be on Friday, June 9, and Saturday, June 10.

Volunteers from the Family History Group will be running two free workshops providing opportunities to learn techniques that will help to read inscriptions on difficult to read memorials.

The group will also be on hand to help with searches of parish records.

Readers can send photos to haverhill@suffolkfhs.org.uk or drop them into the church for the Family History Group to collect.

BEER WEEKEND

AT THE READY: The Nethergate Brewery team

Weekend goes down a treat

RACHAEL MCMENEMY

@rach_mc94CN

HAVERHILL'S inaugural beer weekend was a big success with around 450 people visiting the arts centre to sample the variety of beers and ciders on offer.

The event, which ran from Friday to Sunday, was nearly a sell out with around 200 people downing a pint or two on the Saturday alone.

A total of 13 beers were on offer from Nethergate Brewery and by the Sunday seven had sold out with the other six nearly gone, according to Nick Keeble, the Haverhill town council arts and leisure manager.

Two of the four ciders on offer also proved popular and also ran out.

Nick said that one of the highpoints of the weekend was how the event got people talking about and discussing their favourite beers.

He said: "We got a great mix of people from families to CAMRA beer aficionados.

"The more recreational drinkers found it quite interesting. It was a very friendly event, people walking in, talking while they were deciding on which beer to choose and then commenting on the beers. It was quite good for conversation."

Nick added: "There were a lot of different flavours, one of the beers was coffee and vanilla flavour, there was a big debate about it. Some people loved it, it was a bit like a meal in a glass."

He added that there had been an "overwhelmingly positive" response to the weekend and the town council is already considering plans for next year's weekend, which organisers hope will also run on the first May bank holiday.

Nick said: "All in all we were pleased and customers seemed to be really engaged and positive and we got lots of good feedback and comments from people who came."

RECOVERING: Heidi Ince before being released from hospital

'From near death to Disney in a week'

RACHAEL MCMENEMY

@rach_mc94CN

INCREDIBLE mum-of-four Heidi Ince nearly died from anaphylactic shock in February but just six days after being released from intensive care she took her children to Disney in a celebration of life.

Heidi, from Haverhill, was getting ready for bed on the night her life took a drastic turn when suddenly her skin started to itch and burn.

Within minutes Heidi's life was hanging in the balance - her tongue began to swell and her airways closed.

She said: "It was quite a scare, quite traumatic. I just started to itch, it was indescribable how this burning itch was, it was all over my body from the soles of my feet to the palms of my hands. I got my son to get a knife to scrape at myself. I started to feel short of breath, my tongue started to swell. Within a matter of minutes my son, Oliver, called the ambulance."

A paramedic arrived and immediately starting pumping adrenaline into Heidi to try and control the reaction, but nothing worked. The paramedic used up all the adrenaline in her pack and desperately called for the ambulance to hurry, worried that she may lose her.

Heidi had to be intubated in theatre because of the severity of her reaction. She went into cardiac arrest twice and was put into an induced coma in intensive care.

Her first question upon waking was 'did I miss Disney?' The determined mum to Charles, Oliver, Louie and Grace made sure the family holiday went ahead.

Just six days after her release from intensive care she took her children to Disneyland Paris. "I went from death to Disney in a week but those memories will last a lifetime, that's the most important thing, to create memories."

Heidi says she owes her life to the East of England Ambulance Service and is hosting a family fun day on Sunday, May 7, at the New Croft in Haverhill in partnership with Haverhill Rovers to raise money for the service and Haverhill Rovers' youth teams.

Hospital trust team up for top award

THE anaesthetic team at West Suffolk Foundation Trust has been shortlisted for a team of the year award.

The awards, run by the British Medical Journal, are the UK's top medical awards and recognise inspirational work of healthcare teams across the country.

Dr Patricia Mills, consultant anaesthetist and clinical director at West Suffolk NHS Foundation Trust, said: "Over the past four years the anaesthetic team has become central to every stage of a surgical patient's care before, during and after surgery. This means patients benefit from improved quality of care and services because they are helped to get better more quickly."

"We couldn't have done this without our management and staff embracing the change in working practices. The results of this change are fantastic and many of our departmental protocols are being used by the Royal College of Anaesthetists in their best practice library to guide other anaesthetic departments."

This year's BMJ awards attracted 290 entries, with 60 teams shortlisted. The 15 eventual winners will be announced at an awards ceremony in London today.

FUNDRAISING

Charity bike ride to mark company's 75th birthday

RACHAEL MCMENEMY

@rach_mc94CN

FOUR fundraisers are gearing up for a gruelling 175-mile journey from Haverhill to Holland in July.

Vicky LeFanu, Sam Griffiths, Alex Ward and Tom Offord are work colleagues at pet healthcare manufacturer Beaphar in Haverhill.

The team will be joined by six colleagues from other offices and are aiming to raise £7,500 for Cancer Research UK to commemorate the company's 75th anniversary.

Vicky, marketing and communications executive, based in Haverhill, said: "It's not every day a family-owned business celebrates 75 years in the pet industry. It's a great achievement and therefore we felt it should be marked with a company challenge while raising money for a very good cause. We have chosen to raise money for Cancer Research, a charity which is very dear to many of the Beaphar team."

The monumental ride is expected to take three days starting on July 1, as the 10-strong team cycle from their Haverhill base to company headquarters in Raalte, Holland.

For the last 50 miles of the journey the team will have support from 12 of their Dutch colleagues, including Beaphar's owner and CEO, Henk Aa.

Sue Huggett, business manager, said: "We are very proud of the team who are taking part."

The 10 members of the Beaphar 75th anniversary team have collectively been with the company for more than 75 years.

STYLISH SPORTS STARS: The Linton Heights team show off their brand new kit

Award-winning athletes look the part in new sports kit

ATHLETES at Linton Heights Junior School have been gifted a brand new sports kit thanks to a Cambridge based estate agency. Cooke Curtis and Co helped the award-winning athletes look the part as they continue to bring back trophies.

PE co-ordinator Dan Penfold said: "Cooke Curtis' incredibly generous gift of our fabulous sports kit really gave our runners a strong sense of pride and indeed the winning edge in April's county cross country event and all other events.

"We were delighted that our boys came in 6th out of 133 teams and girls 13th.

"The children and staff of Linton Heights Junior School are indebted to the Cooke Curtis team for their kindness."

TRANSPORT

Town's rail plans take a step forward

CALLS for a railway to be reinstated in Haverhill could be about to make progress with plans for a feasibility study.

At a meeting on Friday, Rail Haverhill met with Conservative candidate for West Suffolk, Matthew Hancock about the possibility of extending a train line to Haverhill.

Speaking after the meeting Rail Haverhill chairman Heike Sowa said: "The meeting last Friday went ahead and Matt Hancock promised us his support. He was very interested and enthusiastic about the light rail idea put forward by Dr Harris from Cambridge Connect. And he recognised that financial funds coming from Suffolk are needed to support the project as well as from other counties. The first stage being to finance a feasibility study."

Cambridge Connect wants to see a light rail system that starts in Cambridge and will eventually extend to Haverhill and the surrounding area.

It is thought to be cheaper and more efficient than most heavy rail systems.

Ms Sowa added that Mr Hancock recognised the importance of reinstating rail to improve the town.

St. Felix RC Primary School Nursery
 Nursery Open Morning Tuesday 9th May 9:30 – 11:00
 Visit our Nursery Open Morning to see how our warm, nurturing environment can start your child's learning journey. We look forward to welcoming you.
 Places available for September 2017 for 3 year olds.
 Nursery times: Monday to Friday 8:45-11:45

What OFSTED says?

- All children achieve well because of the detailed, accurate assessment, which is used to inform the planning of activities.
- The children are happy, behave well and follow routines. They show respect to each other and listen carefully to adults. The children show perseverance and stay on a task until its completion.
- The outdoor learning strategies in the woodland area are thoroughly enjoyed by the early years children. In their wellingtons and protective clothing the children run and roll through the long grass. The activities develop children's speaking and listening skills, vocabulary and confidence. As one excited child stated while walking through the long grass, 'I didn't expect this to happen, my legs have disappeared.' The children use their problem-solving skills, for example when thinking about the best way to lay sticks for an open fire.

Our school welcomes children from all or no faith, as outlined in our recent OFSTED 2016 report: Pupils in this fully inclusive school are being well prepared to become confident citizens in modern Britain.

Pupils go purple for the day to raise charity cash for Relay for Life

SCHOOLS across Haverhill went purple for the day to raise cash for Cancer Research.

Pupils at Samuel Ward Academy, Churchill Special Free School, Place Farm

Primary Academy and Clements Primary School raised more than £1,000 by donning purple clothes and accessories to raise funds for Cancer Research's Relay for Life.

Jane Sendall, headteacher at Place Farm, praised the creativity of staff and pupils who found imaginative ways to incorporate the purple theme. She said: "There was an interesting and innovative selection of purple accessories on display with children wearing purple socks, berets, bow ties, badges and an array of hair bands, lipstick and eye liner – it was great to see."

Organisers of the Suffolk-wide event said they were very grateful for the generosity of the pupils and staff from all the participating schools.

COMMUNITY

Jigsaw fans organise display

AN UNUSUAL art festival is coming to Kedington next weekend.

The Kedington jigsaw festival will see more than 350 completed jigsaws go on display for people to admire and buy.

Completed jigsaws for the art event have been donated and done by people from Haverhill, Kedington, Clare, Cavendish and Sudbury.

Around 100 jigsaws will be on show at Kedington Church at any one time over the weekend.

Once one of the jigsaws is sold another will take its place, creating a changing art display over the course of the weekend.

On top of the arty puzzles there will also be displays about jigsaws, and a variety of competitions and refreshments too.

Any money raised from the exhibition will go to the parish church.

The event is being held on May 13 and May 14 in Kedington Church.

ON STAGE: Sally Barker and Brooks Williams on Sunday, May 14

FRANK Ifield, the first artist to have three consecutive number 1 hits – I Remember You, Lovesick Blues and The Wayward Wind – looks back at his lengthy musical career tonight.

He will be accompanied by some of his showbiz friends, will sing some of the old favourites, share his memories and maybe even treat the audience to a yodel or two.

■ Last year's winner of Britain's Got Talent, Richard Jones, will be unleashing the power of his imagination with his spectacular magic show tomorrow. Unfortunately tickets are sold out. If you missed out make sure to like the arts centre Facebook page to get programme updates.

■ Andy Fairweather Low rose to prominence in the 1960s as heart-throb and guitarist for chart-topping band Amen Corner. His vocals and distinctive voice were the perfect lead for the group with hits such as Bend me, Shape Me (If Paradise is) Half As Nice and Hello Susie. In the 70s his solo career saw him stack up more hits such as the classic, Wide-eyed and Legless and in the 80s Andy built his reputation playing guitar with a list that reads like the Who's Who of British Rock, including performing with The Who, Eric Clapton, George Harrison, not Pink Floyd's Roger Waters and Rolling Stone Bill Wyman. See him in action, with his band The Low Riders, on Saturday at 8pm.

■ Daniel Radcliffe stars in Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead in the National Theatre (recorded) broadcast of Tom Stoppard's play on May 7. Expect witty wordplay from Hamlet's school-mates in this new production that has received much critical acclaim.

■ There's more drama from the National Theatre with Obsession starring Jude Law in the stage version of Luchino Visconti's 1943 film. Jude is Gino the handsome drifter who all too quickly, meets Giovanna and her husband, falls for Giovanna and then devises a plot to kill the husband. Gino is not one to let the grass grow under his feet, is he? This live broadcast will be screened on Thursday, May 11.

■ Two classic films were the inspiration for the special tribute show that is Committed to the Blues Brothers. The Commitments, (Mustang Sally and Take Me to the River) has a new best friend in The Blues Brothers (Everybody Needs Somebody) and together they form a BOGOF that you actually want! This live tribute show, featuring a 12 piece showband, is suitable for all ages and promises to be an evening of foot-tapping, sing-a-long entertainment. Shake your tail-feather on Saturday, May 13, at 8pm.

■ The audience for Brooks Williams's last concert at the arts centre are still saying how great he was and he is now back, this time with Sally Barker, on Sunday, May 14, at 7.30pm.

Sally's career has spanned 30 years and has seen her fronting all female super-group The Poozies and collaborating with such musicians as Bob Dylan and Robert Plant. Williams's music has been described as 'Americana at its finest' – together they should blow you away!

■ Joan Collins and Pauline Collins join forces for The Time of Their Lives (12A) on Monday, May 8, at 1.30pm and Friday, May 12, at 7.30pm. A former movie star and her downtrodden pal go on a road-trip that could be described as a silver haired version of Thelma & Louise.

■ Next up cinema-wise is the true-story of unsung Second World War hero Louisa Gould, a shopkeeper on Nazi-occupied Jersey who takes in an escaped Russian POW and claims him as her own son. See Another Mother's Son on Monday, May 15, and Wednesday, May 17, at 1.30pm and 7.30pm respectively.

■ The Lost City of Z is also based on a true story but one set slightly further afield. Explorer Colonel Percy Fawcett takes what, in retrospect, could be described as an ill-advised journey in the Amazon jungle to search for a lost civilisation. He does find the civilisation but it takes him a loooong time to get home to his wife and children and he doesn't quite get the fame and fortune he wants. Watch Percy's adventures on Monday, May 15, at 7.30pm.

■ Coming soon to the arts centre are such delights as Centre Stage's production of Oliver!; Imelda Staunton starring in NT live broadcast of Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?; comedian Mark Thomas and psychic Marcus Day. Thursday, May 4, 7.30pm Frank Ifield Friday, May 5, 8pm Richard Jones – The Power of Imagination. Sold out.

Saturday, May 6, 8pm Andy Fairweather Low & The Low Riders Sunday, May 7, 7pm Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead Thursday, May 11, 7pm Obsession Monday, May 8, 1.30pm, Friday, May 12, 7.30pm The Time of Their Lives (12A) Saturday, May 1, 8pm Committed to the Blues Brothers Sunday, May 14, 7.30pm Brooks Williams and Sally Barker Monday, May 15, 1.30pm Another Mother's Son (12A) Monday, May 15, 7.30pm The Lost City of Z (15)

Q means quality from Audi

THIS is the all-new Audi Q5 SUV which is the second generation of one of Audi's biggest-selling motors on sale in the UK now.

It may look much like the outgoing Q5 but Audi says it is all new from the ground up and comes with the latest technology available, is lighter and more fuel efficient and offers more interior space for passengers and possessions.

Despite a slight all-round increase in dimensions the new Q5 comes in around 90kg lighter than the first generation model which means it is a little bit more nimble on the move.

Audi has aimed the new Q5 squarely against the likes of the BMW X3, Land Rover Discovery Sport and even the Jaguar F-PACE in the premium SUV sector and my first impression is that it is up there with the best.

Initially there is a choice of two fuel systems for UK buyers, the 2.0 TFSI 252bhp petrol turbo, or the 2.0 TDI oil-burner, with more derivatives to follow later, including hybrid drive models. The diesel line-up has a starting price of £37,240 and the petrol comes in at £37,990.

Both offer top class performance. The TDI with seven-speed S tronic gearing can hit 62mph in just 7.9 second and on to a top whack of 135mph. It produces 133 g/km of CO₂, while the petrol version hits

ALL-IMPROVED: The all-new Audi Q5 is lighter, more full efficient and roomier 62mph in just 6.3 seconds and on to 147mph, with CO₂ coming in at 159 g/km.

Audis are all about classy interiors with the best fit and finish and quality materials being utilised and the new Q5 is no exception.

There is ample head and legroom in the Q5 for four bigger than normal adults to feel comfortable and boot space is exceptionally good, easily swallowing up a fair amount of gear for family outings or sports equipment. Rear luggage space has been increased to 550 litres and the power operated tailgate is standard.

Standard and optional equipment is huge in the Q5. It comes with Xenon headlights the LED daytime running lights and LED tail lights as standard.

There's a choice of 18 or 19-inch alloys and it comes with electrically adjustable heated door mirrors, aluminium roof rails and window trim plus side and rear windows in heat-insulating glass.

Twin leather heated front seats face the Audi virtual cockpit fully digital instrument cluster which has an optional 12.3-inch LCD high resolution touch-screen display with navigation, phone and entertainment systems which are easily accessed.

The Q5 isn't an off-road motor but it can tackle a bit of rough stuff and demanding driving routes. It isn't short on helpful kit to help cope with adverse conditions.

It comes with independent wheel suspension, anti-roll bars, electromechanical steering, dual circuit brake system, anti-lock brake system, electronic brake force distribution, traction control, stabilisation control, front and rear ventilated discs plus other useful driving aids.

As far as the driving experience goes I was mighty impressed with the performance and handling of the TFSI S tronic.

First impression was the overall ride quality which for a motor of this size was excellent. It soaked up noise from all but the roughest of our badly maintained roads and on the move the quietness inside is remarkable.

Despite its size the big Audi holds on to tight bends well with very little body roll and acceleration through the seven-speed auto is smooth with no gear-change lurches.

Braking, even at speed, is gradual and effective and acceleration comes in smoothly when cruising but gives a bit of kick when overtaking is needed.

Overall I enjoyed my test drive and think that Audi has improved what was already a top-notch motor which should stay near the top of its sector.

More than 1.6 million Q5s have been sold worldwide since its introduction in 2008 and the second generation is sure to continue to attract even more sales.

New Volvo rolls off the production line

PRODUCTION of Volvo Cars' new XC60 mid-size SUV has begun at the company's Torslanda plant in Sweden.

The T5 AWD Inscription replaces Volvo's highly successful original XC60, which in the nine years since its launch became the best-selling premium mid-sized SUV in Europe, with nearly a million units sold globally. The XC60 today represents around 30 per cent of Volvo's total global sales.

The XC60 is the fourth model based on Volvo's in-house-developed SPA vehicle architecture, following the introduction of the top-of-the-line 90 series in recent years.

Steer Assist has been added to the City Safety system. Oncoming Lane Mitigation uses Steer Assist to help mitigate head-on collisions, while Volvo's Blind Spot Information System (BLIS) now uses Steer Assist functionality to reduce the risk of lane-changing collisions.

Pilot Assist, Volvo's advanced semi-autonomous driver-assistance system, which takes care of the steering, acceleration and braking on well-marked roads up to 130 km/h, is available in the new XC60 as an option.

Grey is the way for the Fords of today

CELEBRITIES including Rihanna and Cara Delevingne are dyeing their locks grey, #GrannyHair has more than 250,000 posts on Instagram, and 63-year-old grey-haired model Lyn Slater earlier this year followed in the footsteps of Cindy Crawford, Claudia Schiffer and Naomi Campbell to sign with the prestigious Elite model agency.

Grey isn't just taking the fashion world by storm; it's also the colour to be seen in when it comes to new cars.

Ford has just revealed that grey is the most popular choice for its buyers in Europe, knocking white from the number one spot last year.

Britain's top-selling car maker currently offers eight different shades of grey for customers in Europe, and has offered more than 50 shades of grey around the world since the early 1990s.

"We identified grey as a 'trend colour' – one that has a shorter lifespan than core paints developed around silver, black and white – but even we're surprised at how popular it's become," said Julie Francis, Ford's colour and material design manager.

"Grey is a great untapped colour, offering new ways to be cool and different in the modern age."

It's not only a desire to stand out from the crowd that's driving the trend – recent political upheaval across the globe is also turning us onto grey, according to colour psychology expert Karen Haller.

"When there is a level of insecurity and uncertainty – as we have seen following the US elections and Brexit – we tend to retreat and gravitate towards things that make us safe, which is why grey is so popular," said Haller.

"This trend has really taken off because it is also a colour that recedes, allowing for more vibrant colours to take centre stage. It really depends on your outlook. For me, there's already enough grey in the world – so I love to surround myself with the joy of colour."

But grey represents more than just style and comfort. The colour also has more cerebral connotations, says Laurie Pressman, vice-president of the Pantone Colour Institute.

"Thoughtful and contemplative, grey is the colour of intellect. We refer to the grey matter of brain and mind and thereby associate grey with representing a striving for truth, knowledge and wisdom," he said.

Increase in sale of used cars – says SMMT

MORE used cars were sold in the UK than ever before in 2016 with no fewer than 8.2 million vehicles changing hands, according to the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders (SMMT).

Sales of pre-owned cars were up by 7.3 per cent on the previous year and the used car market reflected the ongoing changes in new car consumer tastes.

Demand for smaller cars showed no sign of slowing.

Superminis were again the best-selling body type accounting for more than a third of all used car sales while sales of used city cars grew 11.5 per cent.

But the popularity of pre-owned SUVs' rose fastest – up nearly 17 per cent to take an 8.3 per cent share of the market.

Although petrol still leads as the used fuel type of choice with more than 4.6 million traded, its market share fell slightly with sales of used alternatively fuelled vehicle and diesels growing more. Used AFV registrations rose 32.5 per cent, while diesels increased 11.1 per cent and sales of used petrol models grew 4.7 per cent.

Reflecting the top-selling new cars over the last few years, Britain's best selling used car remained the Ford Fiesta, closely followed by the Ford Focus and Vauxhall Corsa and Astra with the Volkswagen Golf the top selling non-British brand in fifth place.

Silver remained the number one used car colour choice ahead of black and blue, while brown entered the top 10 in place of gold.

Says Mike Hawes, SMMT chief executive: "On the back of a record 2016 for UK new car registrations, it's further good news that our used car market is in such good health. Strong demand is testament to the quality, reliability and appeal of cars on sale today, with used buyers enjoying more choice, more low emission, safety and connected technology than ever."

A British-built revolution

IT would be fair to say that the Honda Civic was looking a little tired and jaded around the edges, but enter the all-new tenth generation model and it's a whole new ball game.

The latest Civic – built in Britain at Honda's Swindon factory – is new from the ground up and boasts a fresh, sporty design guaranteed to turn heads.

There are two punchy petrol engines, a range of trim levels and either manual or automatic transmissions with prices starting from a very competitive £18,335.

Initially two new petrol engines are available. These are a three-cylinder 1.0-litre 129ps powertrain which can deliver combined fuel economy of 55.4mpg with carbon emissions of 106g/km.

Alternatively, the more powerful 1.5-litre 182ps engine can offer a combined 46.3mpg with emissions of 133g/km.

The 1.0-litre model is available in SE, SR and EX trim levels while the 1.5-litre model is available in grades Sport, Sport Plus and Prestige. Although there is no diesel options at the moment we are reliably informed one will be introduced next year.

When it comes to looks, the new Civic is a winner all round thanks to its dynamic styling, achieved by the car's new dimensions.

The new Civic is 20mm lower, 30mm wider and 136mm longer than the previous version and those proportions, along with sweeping light clusters, large air intakes, and smart alloys certainly give the newcomer a more aggressive appearance.

GOOD LOOKING: The new sporty design of the Honda Civic Move inside and there is a wealth of technology to explore with even the entry-level models generously equipped.

There is a new seven-inch TFT-LCD driver display which is positioned within the newly reconfigured instrument binnacle.

Other creature comforts include the second-generation Honda CONNECT system to link up with multimedia devices via Apple CarPlay and Android Auto.

There is a wireless smartphone charging pad, full navigation facilities and a great sound system. More upmarket features such as leather seats and a glass sunroof are introduced on the higher spec models.

Comfort levels within the car are high and there is room for five adults although taller back seat passengers may struggle a little for headroom due to the car's sloping roofline.

Storage options are very impressive and Honda claims its boot capacity of 478 litres is class leading. This can be increased to 828 litres with the rear seats dropped flat.

The latest Civic also features Honda's safety package, called SENSING, across the range which includes forward collision warning, collision mitigation braking system, lane departure warning, road departure warning, lane keep assist, adaptive cruise control, traffic sign recognition, intelligent speed assistance and intelligent adaptive cruise control which is a useful feature that helps to predict cars cutting in front of you on motorways and will adjust the speed accordingly.

The 1.0-litre version mated to a six-speed manual gearbox is an excellent combination and laid to rest any reservations about a little three-pot engine having enough gusto to power the mighty five-door hatchback.

The car is the most aerodynamic Civic to date and that is most apparent when it comes to its performance. It can corner at pace and the lower centre of gravity delivers a more engaging experience.

A new suspension system helps to iron out any road surface creases and the car is generally well insulated against outside noise. This test car was priced at £23,725 for range-topping EX trim.

The 1.5-litre Civic in Sport Plus, priced at £25,930, features a six-speed manual gearbox.

All in all, the latest Civic is a fabulous car. Honda has taken into account the car's 40-year heritage and brought it bang up to date.

It looks great, is packed with technology, it's competitively priced and it handles beautifully.

Santa Fe's Antarctic drive

HYUNDAI in the UK is launching a limited edition of 500 special SUVs named the Santa Fe Endurance Edition.

It sits at the top of Hyundai's range, and celebrates a recent history-making drive by Patrick Bergel, the great-grandson of legendary polar explorer, Sir Ernest Shackleton.

Last December, Bergel completed a 30-day expedition in a near-standard 2.2-litre diesel Santa Fe, driving across Antarctica from Union Camp to McMurdo Sound and back again, commemorating the centenary of Shackleton's heroic Trans-Antarctic expedition of 1914-16.

This was the first time a passenger vehicle had traversed the Antarctic continent and the 2.2-litre Santa Fe used by Bergel featured only a handful of modifications to counter the tough Antarctic conditions, such as the fitment of large, low-pressure tyres, a 250-litre fuel tank and a pre-heater for the cold.

Each car is based on the 2.2 diesel seven seat 4WD automatic Santa Fe in premium SE trim with convenience pack, which also includes electric tailgate, panoramic sun roof, autonomous emergency braking, smart cruise control and around view monitor.

Endurance editions are further marked out by 19-inch alloy wheels

and side bar sport running steps. The final touch is a special Endurance logo, which can be found on the B-pillar and interior floor mats. The logo commemorates Shackleton's Endurance expedition and features the Shackleton family motto and a 28-point compass representing the 28 crew that survived the original expedition.

It will cost £38,995 and can be ordered from May 18.

Tony Whitehorn, president and chief executive of Hyundai UK, said: "This new Endurance edition offers customers an incredibly well-equipped Santa Fe, one that will be able to tackle everything family life throws at it, and more.

"As Sir Ernest Shackleton's great-grandson, Patrick Bergel proved just a few months ago, with just a few choice modifications, you could even traverse Antarctica."

Toyota introduces a new range-topper

TOYOTA is introducing a new Limited Edition range topper to its C-HR compact SUV crossover line up.

Only 100 versions of the special hybrid model are being released, priced from £29,995.

The C-HR Limited Edition features a bi-tone paint job with a black coloured roof, spoiler and door mirrors and sits on 18-inch alloys finished in matt black.

Interior trim includes leather upholstery and a 576 Watt JBL sound system. Each model also has special badging on its fascia to denote its exclusive status.

The Limited Edition C-HR is based on the Dynamic model which includes sat nav as standard and shares the same 1.8-litre petrol-electric hybrid powertrain.

Official performance figures are 0 to 60 in 11 seconds with a combined fuel figure of 72.4mpg and emissions of 87g/km.

Rovers' own goal agony

AN unfortunate own goal meant Haverhill Rovers' Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division campaign ended with a 1-0 defeat at Brantham.

The pivotal incident came in the 33rd minute when Rovers' Charlie Turner left his goal to block Ben Newson. The keeper's momentum carried him out towards Simon Mann near the right bye-line and his cross was turned into his own net by under-pressure midfielder Luke Haines.

It was the only clear-cut opening of the first half, but the sides were more direct after the break. Haines tested Brantham keeper Stuart Hunt and both Rory Jebb and Mitchell Burr shot wide before Justin Leavers fashioned Rovers' best chance, but his effort was cleared off the line by Nicholas Farthing.

Brantham, searching for their seventh win in eight games which took them up to eighth in the table, turned the screw in the final quarter of an hour and nearly made it 2-0 with a volley in the 80th minute that struck the underside of the bar.

Leavers also shot wide of the near right post three minutes into added time to leave Rovers in 16th position.

Hope I don't get tyre-d

Softer compound should provide more track action, says Paffett

NEW SEASON, NEW TEAM: Gary Paffett has rejoined HWA for the new DTM season

GARY Paffett anticipates an exciting season ahead as the DTM gets under way at Hockenheim this weekend with new tyres aimed at improving the spectacle for fans and drivers.

Switching to a softer compound tyre means the cars will be considerably quicker over one lap, but the higher rate of degradation will provide greater opportunities for overtaking and varied strategies.

Mercedes driver Paffett, who has left the ART team and rejoined HWA, sees the move as a positive development as it should lead to more action on the track.

"We're going to have to manage the tyres a bit more this year," he said. "It's a positive move. We were getting to the stage where there was no tyre management at all and there wasn't much overtaking."

"This should create some overtaking, but it's not going to be a lottery – teams and drivers will still have control."

A ban on tyre heaters should spice up the action even more, while other changes in the regulations include a limitation on radio communications between the pitlane and drivers, restricted use of DRS to encourage more tactical usage and points for the fastest three drivers in qualifying.

Thirty-six-year-old Paffett – champion in 2005 – expects the three manufacturers, Mercedes, BMW and Audi, to be closely matched once again and said while he hopes to challenge for the title, his main aim is to beat his team-mate.

"The first goal is to be the lead driver in the team," he continued. "That's all I can control, to be better than my team-mate."

"It's also important to be more consistent. Last year I had some races at the front and I made it on to the podium but I wasn't consistent enough. I hope to improve on that this year because you have to be consistently strong to win the championship."

■Hundon's Ben Barker will hope he and the Gulf Racing team can challenge for a place on the podium in their Porsche 911 RSR in the GTE Am class at the Six Hours of Spa race in Belgium this weekend.

■Alexander Sims, from West Wratting, is back in action on the other side of the Atlantic as the IMSA WeatherTech SportsCar Championship resumes at the Circuit of the Americas, Texas. The race is due to last 2hr 40min on Saturday.
